EJECTION LEADS TO KENTVILLE FORFEIT; EARLY SEASON MADNESS CONTINUES

At 11:35pm, more than four hours after Friday night's Kentville-Dartmouth matchup began, it ended abruptly with the ejection of Wildcats infielder-turned emergency pitcher Caleb Medcraft. Medcraft was the last man standing in the Kentville lineup and, with no one left on the bench, the Wildcats were forced to forfeit.

The Wildcats literally battled to their last man, in a chippy back-and-forth affair in which multiple substitutions and injured players were inserted into the lineup in a last-ditch effort to eke out an improbable victory.

The game had already been defined by heroics. The undermanned Wildcats saw Dawson Oldham grind out multiple innings in the infield after suffering an injury while pitching. Reliever Drew Chase was inserted as a pinch runner and later stayed in the game at first base. And Kyle Armsworthy made a spectacular, full extension, game-saving grab with the winning run in scoring position to extend the game once more. Three full innings later, shortstop Medcraft had all but sealed the top of the 12th inning and the Wildcats were preparing to bat when the game was brought to a sudden end.

The loss wasn't even the first moment of controversy for the 2026 Kentville Wildcats, as a decision was made to resume a game called early on May 22 against the Metro Brewers after the lights went out with the game tied at 10-10 in the bottom of the 10th. NSSBL rules state that any regular season game called in such a manner must be replayed in its entirety, so when the game was resumed on June 7, Kentville played under protest. Though they lost the game 11-10, the protest was upheld, and the game will be replayed in its entirety later this season.

SOCIETY • SOCIÉTÉ

The ALS Society of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia is grateful to be recognized and to have the chance to share a few words about ALS and the importance of community support. ALS, or Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis, is a progressive neurological disease that affects movement, speech, swallowing, and breathing. There are roughly 120 to 150 new cases per year in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. That is between 2.4-3.0 days for a new case. Currently the life expectancy is between 2-5 years after diagnosis.

While there is no cure, the ALS Society works to ensure that individuals and families facing ALS are supported every step of the way. Funds raised through events like this and the annual ALS Walk Strong fundraiser help provide essential equipment, services, and support at no cost to clients and families across New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. These supports make a real difference in helping people live with comfort, dignity, and independence. Visit our website at www.alsnbs.ca to learn more and get involved.

Today is also an opportunity to honour Ian Mosher, whose connection to this baseball community is clearly still deeply felt. We are grateful to see his name remembered and celebrated through this event. Thank you for helping raise awareness and for standing with the ALS community.
